HOSPITAL IS PROPOSED FOR THIS COMMUNITY

One of the most important projects of the year for the general good of Washington Township was put before the Niles Chamber of Commerce and the business men of the community this week by Mr. R. Weston—a township hospital.

Mr. Weston, the builder of the Sutter hospital in Sacramento, which is declared by many to be the "finest hospital in the United States" explained that a compartively small hospital could be built and maintained for less cost per bed than the larger ones. This community, he said, judging from the reports of the physicians of the township, ought to maintain at least a thirty-bed hospital. Such a one would cost about $50,000, completely equipped, and should return to the stockholders interest at 6 or 7 per cent. Besides, a large amount of good would be done, perhaps lives saved, on account of the hospital being near. Indeed, Mr. Weston emphasized the good rather than the financial returns.

To insure the building of the hospital it will be necessary for the stockholders to raise $25,000. Physicians of the township have shown their faith in the project by subscribing from $500 each up. From estimates furnished it is shown that about 500 hospital cases originate each year in this township, and it is calculated about $60,000 a year would come to a local hospital.

WOMAN INJURED WHEN AUTO TIPS OVER NEAR SAN JOSE

Mrs. Abel Fisher, of Butler, Pa., a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher of Niles, is in a San Jose hospital as a result of an auto accident near San Jose Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and their guest were driving, with Mr. Fisher, it is said, at the wheel. In some way the car overturned and Mrs. Abel Fisher was injured. It is thought she has a broken or dislocated hip.

The many friends of J. R. Fallon will be pleased to learn that he is on the high road to recovery from his recent illness, and expects to report for work at new location at Stockton within a few days.

A small hand bag, containing money, papers and bills, recently advertised in this paper as lost, has been returned to Mrs. C. L. Hill, sent special delivery from Berkeley. But the money, about $30.00, was not visible to the naked eye when the bag was opened.

Every man in this section can remember a licking he got that he didn't deserve when he was a kid, but forgets all about those that he didn't get that he deserved.

PAIR ROBBED; IN SWIMMING

Having participated in the festivities of the Santo Cruz treasure hunt, Arthur Achor, 24, 1305 Clay street, stopped his coupe and with his girl friend plunged into the water of the old swimmin' hole under the S. P. track in Niles Canyon Sunday night.

When the couple emerged from the water they discovered that the machine had been made the object of another kind of treasure hunt, and the young woman was the loser it was reported Chief Jack Goldner, of Niles, of one pair of tortoise-shell glasses, a watch, a couple of rings and several other articles, all declared to be worth $200 to $300.

Achor reported results of the new treasure hunt to Goldner about 10 o'clock Sunday night, and to Alameda County sheriff's. He declined to reveal the name of the girl.

Achor is employed by the Jackson Furniture Company, of Oakland.

A diamond ladies wrist watch; a man's watch, 2 emerald rings, one musician's emblem ring, and a pair of glasses is the itemized list of lost articles.

CENTERVILLE GIRLS HOLD PLAY DAY

Girls' Day was observed at the Washington Union high school at Centerville last Saturday. Baseball games, track competition between classes and other sports were features of the occasion.

BE CAREFUL WHERE YON FLY YOUR KITE

A bit of cotton string, with a kite on one end and a boy on the other, recently placed a number of telephones near Visalia out of order. Kites have a way of getting entangled with telephone and electric power wires and, when wet with rain or fog, of causing short circuits. In this particular instance the wet string of a Visalia youngster's kite linked a telephone line and power line together with disastrous results. The telephones were brought to town for repairs, but the kite was ruined forever.

Small boys usually remember that it is best to fly kites away from the telephone and power lines but they, of course, do not know that kites cause some of the telephone trouble which occasionally inconveniences their elders—trouble which is repaired as quickly as the telephone men can get to the scene of the kite flying. Telephone men have have become as experts at removing kites from lines as the wind is adept at entangling these bits of flying paper with the wires.

Dr. May Joy, of Kansas City, is here for the summer on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Bace. Dr. Joy is also a sister of Mrs. C. L. Hill.

The many friends of J. R. Fallon will be pleased to learn that he is on the high road to recovery from his recent illness, and expects to report for work at his new location at Stockton within a few days.

K. K. KOMING FRIDAY NITE

Everything is in readiness for a jolly good time at the Kommunity Karnival sponsored by the young people of the Niles Congregational Church. Invitations and posters have been sent out to all neighboring towns as well as an extensive advertising campaign carried on in Niles, and a large crowd of young people and adults are expected to be on hand for the evening's fun. Some very attractive booths are being prepared by the sponsors. Some of the most attractive and interesting will be the "Swimming Match"; "Palm Reading;" "Caricature;" "Favors and Eats." About half of the evenings entertainment will be free. This part will consist of a program of comedy, music and impersonations which will be entertaining and interesting. The evening will close with the auctioning off of basket lunches to highest bidders. Women, ladies and young ladies, are urged to bring basket lunches containing enough for two, three four or more. Each item, except the baskets, will cost but two, three or four cents each. Everyone who desires a clean and wholesome good time is invited to fill his or her purse with pennies and come to the Social Rooms of the Congregational Church. Proceeds will be used to send young people to State C. E. Convention or Young Peoples' Convention at Asilomar.

SENIOR PLAY PROVES DRAWING CARD

A large and enthusiastic audience witnessed the Senior class play, "Help Yourself" at the high school last Saturday evening. Every member of the cast performed worthily, and dramatic talent to a surprising extent was discovered. Those in the play were Ernest Pimentel, Wilbur Bettencourt, Michael Overacker, Addison Richmond, Eddie George, Margaret Lowrey, Inez Brown and Billee Langdon.

DUMBARTON ROAD BEING IMPROVED BY SCARIFIER

A scarifier is at work on the gravel road between the end of the pavement at Newark and the Dumbarton bridge, putting it in shape for binding with oil. This bit of road cannot be paved this year as it runs over low ground and will have to settle a year before concrete can be laid.

Don't forget the date of the Country Club play is next Monday evening, the 13th inst.

EVERYBODY WILL LIKE 3-ACT COMEDY "GETTING SANDY"

Every man, woman and child in Washington Township who is interested in having a good time will find it to his advantage to attend the three-act comedy, "Getting Sandy," to be presented by the Country Club at the Leal Theater, Irvington, next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Tickets can be secrued from the members or at the door and from all reports as the rehearsals progress, the evening's entertainment will be worth many times the price of admission. Funds derived from this affair will go into the treasury of the club.

Music will be furnished by Mrs. George Mathiesen between acts. Mrs. Genevieve Wade Hatch of San Francisco has had charge of the coaching of the play.

All of us owe it to ourselves to do a certain amount of laughing per year and this will be an excellent opportunity for some of us to catch up with our quota for I've been told that the whole performance is just one laugh after another. Besides, think how interesting it is going to be to watch Mr. N. Turnbow play "Sandy McNab," and Mrs. August May interpret the character, "Martha Watkins," Mr. W. Wyatt play "Peter Watkins;" Mrs. M. Munger, "Debby Greene;" Mrs. J. E. Townsend, "Nan Stillman;" Mr. Franklin Brown, "Ned Tiffany;" Mr. W. S. Robie, "Deacon Clark;" Mrs. H. F. SMALL BOY RESCUED BY MARCELLA BLISS

Sometimes the honors for bravery are caried off by the ladies, as in the case of the rescue of a nine-year-old boy at the swimming pool in Brightside park in the Niles Canyon last Sunday by Marcella Bliss, aged 15 years, of Niles.

The child, whose name was not learned, had gone down twice when Marcella noticed that he was in trouble and rescued him.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOC. TO HAVE INSTALLATION

Installation ceremonies for the new officers of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Niles Grammar school will be held next Teusday afternoon at the school at 2 o'clock. Reports from the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations which met in Oakland recently will be given by Mrs. E. Plumb, and Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth, delegates.

TOYON BRANCH ENJOYS PICNIC AT LOS GATOS

Closing the year's activities with a picnic last Friday at the home of Mrs. M. D. Sneden in the hills of Los Gatos, Toyon Branch of the Baby Hospital has as a material result of their season's labors at total of $195.59 to offer as their contribution toward equipment for the hospital in Oakland. This was the final report given at the meeting last week and is the net profits from the recent garden party.

The next meeting of the organization will be held during the first of August at the home of Mrs. James R. Whipple of Niles, chairman of the group.

Among those who were present at the picnic were Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth, chairman of transportation; Mrs. E. T. Chadbourne, chairman of luncheon; Mrs. A. A. Hatch, Mrs. Roger Hatch, Mrs. O. C. These examinations are sponsored by the Bureau of Child Hygiene, California State Board of Health.

Dr. W. Clyde Smith of Chicago, spent last Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Fred Mitte. Dr. Smith is a graduate of Washington High school at Centerville and of the University of California. WAS A PAL OF MR. LINDBERGH

No one is rejoicing more over the flight of Captain Charles Lindbergh than A. C. Harlander, sales and advertising manager of the Mutual Stores, a boyhood pal of Lindbergh.

Harlander, a world-war flyer, relates that he and Lindbergh went to school together in the town of Little Falls, Minnesota. It was in this little town, at the county fair, that the desire to fly was kindled in both boys, and upon the entrance of the United States into the world war, Harlander, who is three years older than Lindbergh, enlisted in the aviation corps.

During their boyhood days, according to Harlander, he and Lindbergh found their greatest thrills in shooting the rapids of the upper Mississippi in a canoe and in blazing new trails through the big woods of the region.

Harlander describes Lindbergh as a normal fellow, filled with ambition and love of adventure. He always had great respect for his mother, Harlander says, and obeyed her wish that he should not smoke or drink so that he would be fit and ready when the big test came.

Himself an aviator, Harlander is well able to appreciate the magnitude of Lindbergh's accomplishment. He is now looking forward to the flyer's return and a reunion, when the two boyhood pals can talk over old times again.

FRIEND OF OTHER CHILDREN

This is the title of the Pantomine which is to be presented by the children of the Congregational Church School in a Children's Day program next Sunday at 11:00. Rehearsals are now going on and all who are able to attend the service next Sunday will find something of benefit and interest to them. This program will follow the regular Sunday School sessions at 10:00 and will take the place of the usual preaching service. All Protestant parents are urged to be present as well as all friends of the children. The offering will be devoted to Sunday School Extension work.

ROOFING TILE TO BE MADE AT NILES CLAY PLANT

Roofing tile is being added to the listof products manufactured in Niles. The W. S. Dickey Clay Manufacturing Company this week started production of the roofing material last week and it is now being produced in quantity. Mr. Duffey, manager of the plant, said that they expect to make about 75 tons of it a day.

Plans for the erection of an up-to-the-minute hospital in Washington Township, presented tentatively by Mr. Weston, hospital building specialist, and endorsed by all of the physicians of the township, were endorsed at the meeting of the Niles Chamber of Commerce Tuesday noon.

Besides Mr. Weston, Dr. Ormsby, Dr. Holman, Dr. Grimmer, Dr. Morrison and Dr. Law spoke on the project and what it would mean to our community. Mr. F. V. Jones also said a few words. Unanimous approval of the plan was evidenced by those present.

Among those present was Mr. Wallace Ebright, of the Spring Valley Water Co., who responded to an invitation from Vice-President Harvey Braun, who occupied the chair, to speak.

There were no committee reports and no communications on file with Secretary E. D. Bristow.

The hospital project—outlined in another column—contemplates the erection of a thirty-room hospital at some point in Washington Township to be selected later. It can be built, Mr. Weston says, for $50,000 and be more modern and more fully equipped than the larger hospitals.

Chairman Harvey Braun appointed J. E. McPherson and J. E. Townsend as the committee for next week.

DELIGHTFUL TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Macpherson returned Thursday from a brief visit to Los Angeles, Hollywood and other cities, where Mrs. Macpherson has several relatives, some of whom she had not seen for more than twenty years. They were accompanied on their return by Mrs. Louise Moyer, sister of Mrs. Macpherson, who will remain in Niles for an indefinite length of time. They report a delightful trip—a well earned vacation for a worthy couple who have studiously attended to their business duties for many a long year past.

JOHN MURPHY FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

A. E. Walton, stage driver, observed a man lying in an orchard belonging to Miss L. A. Berry on the Niles-Centerville road last Saturday. After passing by three times, he investigated, and learned that the man had slashed his throat with a razor, and apparently was in a dying condition. He was able to give his name as John Murphy, aged 64 and stated that he had been a resident of the locality for several years, although no one so far has identified him. He stated he was tired of living. Officer Jack Goldner was called and conveyed him to the Hayward hospital.

DUPONT AGENCY COMES TO NILES

The Du Pont Co., Inc., Wilmington, Del., desires to announce that they have placed the exclusive franchise for the sale of their Paint, Varnish, and Duco products with the C. R. Abrott Hardware and Sporting Goods store of Niles.

Back of this line stands over three-hundred years of paint-making experience. It was the Du Pont Co., that developed Duco, the finish that has so revolutionized the auto finishing industry. This product is manufactured only by the Du Pont Co. There is only one Duco, Du Pont Duco. This is now to be had for brush use, and is rapidly taking its place among home and automobile owners. The fact that it dries in from one to one and a half hours, and yet is much more durable than varnish or enamel, causes it to fill a long-felt need.

The line covers house paints, washable wall paints for inside use, floor and deck enamel paint, decorative enamels, varnish stains, fillers, general utility varnishes, and all the many other items that go to make up a complete line. Mr. Abrott states that in selling this line he feels that he is offering the public the best that is to be had, and one which he can stand squarely behind in every respect. The representative of this line will be in Niles every week, and he will be glad to be of any service whatsoever to all who desire expert advice as regards painting problems.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and timid.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Other women who have to work hard and keep things going may find the road to better health as Mrs. Short did, through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Workers Finding More Time for Recreation

The five-day week has been a bugbear to many an employer, but think how near we have come to it already. A hundred years ago the workman labored for 12 hours a day for six days a week, and in return got shelter, food and clothing and not much of any of them. Now, in many industries, the 44-hour week is common, so that the step to 40 hours is short.

And the employers' habits have changed. The afternoon off for golf, the winter vacation in addition to one in the summer, the week-end that begins on Friday afternoon—how many are shocked by these?

The sage Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York American league baseball team, thinks his possession worth $3,000,000, due to the added leisure of Americans. And golf, he says, has added to the attendance at baseball parks. Interest in one has aroused interest in the other.—Nation's Business.

New York Planning to Put Streets on Roofs

New York city talks of a 16-mile roadway to be built on the roofs of 12-story buildings from the lower part of the city to Yonkers. Gotham's traffic problem is costing the city a million and a half dollars a day. This elevated highway on the roofs would be a motor-express thoroughfare. The man living out of town could motor down to his work without interference of cross-traffic and park his car on the roof of the building in which he makes his living. The improvement would soon pay for itself. Part of the plan calls for a series of moving platforms for pedestrians, along the second floor, the platforms running from a speed slow enough to step on easily, up to 20 miles an hour, to provide free transit on two new north and south avenues. It all reads like an H. G. Wells novel, but it may be realized.—Capper's Weekly.

That's All

The daughter of the house had taken delight in listening to her father dictate the cryptic words of a telegram over the phone. Later that day at the supper table she was making a detailed explanation of something to her mother. Her father asked her, when she had stopped talking, whether she had anything more to say.

"No," she replied, "that's all there is. Period. Stop."

California Ranch News

Inroads of Russian napweed (centaurea repens), a noxious weed, in many sections of Tulare county, has occasioned an extermination campaign by the horticultural office of that county. The seed from the weed was first introduced in this country through alfalfa seed, imported from Russia. A careful check since that time has been made on all imported seed by the local county office. The Russian weed has a large taproot that extends from eighteen to twenty inches down into the soil. It is very difficult to control and spreads rapidly from jointed roots. As a method of extermination, holes are punched down into ground around the weed, and carbon bisulphide is then put into the holes. This method has been very successful, and has resulted in the complete eradication of two patches of the weed, while officials are at the present time working to exterminate the other patches.

Vigorous contest against the proposed sale of the holdings and water rights of the San Joaquin and Kings River Canal and Irrigation company, Inc., to the San Joaquin river water storage district for $4,400,100, will be waged before the state railroad commission by more than 510 ranchers who receive water from the company, it was revealed when hearing on the petition for the sale was opened by Thomas H. Louttit, railroad commissioner. Setting forth that the values placed on the properties are "excessive, unreasonable and greatly disproportionate," the protest of the water users asserts that such a deal would be "extremely detrimental" to the lands now served by the Miller & Lux interests, and further alleges that the petition for the transfer of the properties sets forth no ground which would justify the approval of the railroad commission.

Six huge tractors daily are drawing plows across 15,000 acres of land of the Kern County Land company's Poso ranch, situated northeast of McFarland, preparing the soil of twenty-three sections for the planting of Indian corn this season, replacing the vast broad fields on which, for more than a decade, only volunteer grass and weeds have flourished. Heavy rains last winter have made the project possible. Water for the large acreage is being supplied from Kern river by means of the Caloway canal through which it is carried for more than twenty miles northward. The land is to be farmed on a crop-renting basis, with the land company receiving 25 per cent for use of the land and supplying the water. Thirty-five tenants, many of whom are experienced ranchers of Kern county, have rented the large holdings.

Resumption of the former practice of fixing an opening schedule of prices for juice grapes was the result of a meeting held last week between the eleven directors and thirty-two advisory chairmen of the California Grape Growers' exchange. Last year the prices were not announced, resulting, according to the exchange officials, in much confusion and dissatisfaction among juice grape growers. The exchange has 1,100 members, producing 50,000 tons of juice grapes. It is estimated that the exchange's price schedule, however, is used by 5,000 growers in marketing their crops. Last year California shipped 64,000 carloads of grapes by rail to eastern points. Of this number approximately 50,000 were loaded with juice grapes. This represents 60 per cent of the deciduous fruit shipments of the state.

More onions have been grown in the McFarland district this year than ever before, and quality is high, with a good yield to the acre. Carl Melcher recently shipped a carload of Crystal Wax and expects to ship seven or eight carloads of Spanish sweets. He had about nine acres planted. These onions were transplanted from beds to the field in December, and have had very little irrigation. They are unusually early. Onions were not bothered by the aphis, which damaged so many other local crops.

Declaring the puncture weed to be "a menace to the values of property in the state," and outlining heroic measures for its elimination in Hanford, Mrs. Effie Warnack, secretary of the Hanford board of trade, under the direction of a committee consisting of members of local clubs, has instituted an individual block system in a war of extermination.

The Strathmore farm center is campaigning against destructive birds in that community and is offering a bounty of 2 cents for grown linnets and sparrows, and 1 cent each for small birds or eggs. Cash will be paid those bringing in the birds or eggs by any member of the committee to which they are taken. Besides the bounty local boys are competing for three prizes, the nature of which will be announced later. A record is being kept by the committee of the number of birds and eggs delivered by each contestant.

A mass meeting of Modoc county sheepmen will be held at Alturas on June 16, at which there will be a wool grading and sheep mating demonstration.

Many Imperial cantaloupe growers have agreed to an assessment of 20 cents an acre to supplement the cost of a rigid inspection during the shipping season. At the meeting at which this decision was reached 33,000 acres were represented and 25,000 acres were signed up.

Notwithstanding the doubling of the membership dues this year $5 to $10, the membership committee of the Orange county farm bureau shows a favorable report. Nine hundred farm members are now signed up and it is expected that there will be over a thousand before the end of 1927.

At last week's auction, conducted by the California Farm Bureau Marketing association at Hanford, four cars of hogs were sold for thirty-seven consignors realizing $7,737. The top price for fat hogs was $10.10 and for feeders $13.25. Four butcher cows and nine veal calves were also sold.

Celery planting is under way in the El Monte district. Seed is planted directly in the field in rows with small drills, one pound of seed per acre being used and the seed just covered with soil. So far as known, this is the one district in the United States where celery is grown extensively without transplanting.

Many Tulare county ranchers report their yield of barley hay running two tons to the acre this year, due to copious rainfall at times when it was most needed. Some who have grain fields on the more rocky and hilly portions report a yield averaging a ton, or a ton and a half per acre, and all are well pleased with the season's output.

After a careful check of shipments from the Santa Maria district, the office of the Santa Barbara horticultural commissioner estimates that the vegetable industry of Santa Maria valley has developed to a $6,000,000 a year business. Half of this sum, it is estimated, will go to the growers, who last year received $2,600,000 in return for the vegetables they produced.

Strawberries that go eight to the basket are grown by Jimmie Kurodo, Japanese, in his garden in the suburbs of Marysville. Kurodo made Abe Ruef, former San Francisco attorney, his "advance publicity man" in the bay section when he gave Ruef several baskets of the berries to take home. Kurodo's berries have the quality as well as the size. He says he nets $500 from his half acre of ground in a season. He uses a fertilizer to get the size.

Artesian wells are being watched by officials of the Orange county farm bureau this season following a strenuous campaign to conserve water and stop the waste thereof. Several owners of artesian wells in the coastal section of the county have been served notice through the district attorney's office to stop the wasteful flowing of their wells. Hydraulic engineers have shown that the release of artesian water pressure in the lower plains materially influences the lowering of wells in the upper part of the county.

Walnut, citrus and bean growers of the Garden Grove section are following with keen interest an experiment in the use of chemically treated sewage on the ranch of H. Clay Kellogg north of Garden Grove. The experiment with the sewage was revealed when the state board of health granted a permit for the transportation of five tons of the fertilizer to the ranch from Pasadena. The new fertilizer is said by those producing it to be particularly adapted to use on lands that have been bleached of alkali and is said to be a very cheap product to obtain.

Shipments of nearly 100 cars of Valencias more than the number shipped at the same time last year have been recorded by Mrs. E. B. McCoy, station agent for the Santa Fe at Olive. To date there have been more than 260 cars of Valencias shipped through the local station, her records indicate. Last year there had been 164 carloads sent east. Shipments average about ten cars per day, through the local station, according to Mrs. McCoy. This is a greater average than was noted last year at this time, there being only seven and eight cars a day being shipped in 1926.

Hill ranchers of Madera county are busily getting in their hay. A considerable acreage is put in every year in the hills between Raymond and Mariposa. Oats and barley are the favored crop, and this year will yield good returns. A little rye for winter pasture and, in a few places, wheat, are occasionally put in. This year the native grasses have been exceptionally good and in many places wild hay is being cut. The clovers and in the mountains the timothy make particularly good wild hay, the burr clover being the most popular.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

A squad of eight Indian Runners, from which at least four will be chosen to carry the colors of the Oregon Cavemen in the Redwood highway Indian marathon starting from San Francisco for Grants Pass, Ore., June 14, has been undergoing intensive training for the contest under a special trainer. The squad comprises husky braves of the Karok tribe, picked from trapping and hunting country 80 to 160 miles in the interior. The training camp is down on the Klamath river, where the Indians are subjected to a strict daily regimen, starting with a 5 a. m. plunge in the river and a two-mile jaunt and rub-down before breakfast. The day is devoted to combined running and hiking over the mountain trails. The runners will be brought to San Francisco a few days in advance of the start of the race.

Operations of the Decimo club, an organization with the announced purpose of improving the financial condition of the "white collar" employe, are in violation of the corporate securities act of California, it was announced by Howard C. Ellis, deputy state commissioner of corporations. Ellis held the plan of business now being followed by the Decimo club, Inc., and other similar organizations is, in the opinion of the commissioner of corporations, "contrary to the corporate securities act of this state, and in violation thereof." According to information obtained by Commissioner of Corporations John M. Friedlander, the various organizations have a membership of 20,000 on the Pacific coast.

One of science's choice morsels of mystery is believed to have been uncovered last week when a bed of hundreds of live clams was found on the side of Scotia's bluff, twenty miles south of Eureka, and about the same ditsance inland from the Pacific ocean. Workmen operating a steam shovel on the Northwestern Pacific railroad, biting with the shovel into the side of the bluff, approximately 120 feet above sea level and some eighty feet above the Eel river, directly below, traced a path through a bivalvian colony. Those making the discovery said the clams did not resemble the fresh water variety, but were similar to the Tazor clam of salt water.

Apportionment of $4,116,496.66 to the counties and an equal sum to the state from the gasoline tax collections between October 1, 1926, and March 31, 1927, has been anounced by State Controller Ray E. Riley. The money must be expended for maintenance and reconstruction of highways. The apportionment represents an increase of 11.5 per cent over the $3,691,800.21 distributed to the state and the equal amount to the counties for the same period a year ago. The apportionment for the year ending March 31, this year, of $8,450,276.44 to the counties and an equal sum to the state represents an increase of $948,912.29, or 12.6 per cent.

The state board of prison directors has resumed its policy of "open paroles," following the storm of protest that followed the parole of Harry Court, and made public thirty-two cases. It was announced by Mark Noon, clerk of the board, that during the last meeting 194 cases were considered. Of this number 87 were applications for parole and 107 were for the fixing of terms of men sentenced under the indeterminate sentence law. Thirty-two immediate paroles were granted, including eight for deportation and 24 to relatives or suitable jobs.

How many people in California could name 140 varieties of wild flowers without making a mistake? Five boys from Lytton, the Salvation Army's Home and Farm for Orphan Children in Sonoma county, accomplished that feat successfully at a Santa Rosa wild flower contest, thus winning the prize for the William Booth school, which they attend on the 700-acre ranch where they live and study flower lore. Those are the youngsters who recently sent wild flowers to Mrs. Coolidge.

A floating trade exhibit, intended to educate the public in Australia in the superiority of Pacific coast products, is scheduled to sail from San Francisco ports in July, according to an announcement by MacDonald & Co., San Francisco importers and exporters, sponsors of the project. The exhibit comprises displays by numerous coast manufacturers.

Having passed the 5300 mark in enlisted strength, California's national guard now is the strongest in its history. It also is exceeded in efficiency only by the New York troops. Reports received by Adjutant-General L. E. Middlestadt show that during April the 92 organizations in California established a record of 78.82 per cent for drill attendance.

Governor C. C. Young has the disposal of more than 100 state political positions to consider and he must take steps to fill a majority of these jobs as soon as the enactments of the recent legislature become effective next month. Nearly 80 appointments are placed directly or indirectly within the gift of the governor by new legislation and many of the posts involved are new ones. Several of these new jobs carry salaries ranging above $4,000. Notable among these are the positions of director of public works and director of finance, which will pay $10,000 each.

More than 6,000,000 motorists visited California national forests last year.

A complete mineral survey of Mariposa county is now being conducted by the State Mining bureau.

Only 140 women and 450 men out of a qualified group of 1300 applicants will be admitted to Stanford in the fall, according to notices sent out last week to the successful 590.

Customs collections in San Francisco last month totaled $1,120,254.49, compared with $1,052,994.49 in May, 1926. During the same month a decade ago the tariff duties collected amounted to $380,785.06.

Leighroy Miller, Porterville aviator and veteran of the World war, will attempt a flight from the Pacific coast to Tokio, Japan, if he can obtain $15,000 from his home city to finance preparations for the trip, he has announced.

Freshman hazing has been abolished by volunteer action of the students at the University of California at Los Angeles. There will be the annual class scrap, which will last half a day, but aside from that freshmen are to be unmolested.

The total budget of running expenses for the University of California for the coming year, exclusive of endowments, is $6,287,167. The fund comes out of state revenue and includes salaries for some 1,300 faculty members in addition to many other employes.

The national forests form the home of a part of all the large game found in California and contain, according to a wild life census made by forest service officials, 225,000 deer, 10,000 bear, 1,000 mountain sheep, 400 antelope and 150 elk. In addition there are large numbers of predatory beasts, including 50,000 coyotes, 22,000 lynx and wildcats and 2,000 mountain lions.

Just twenty-four hours after he was forced the first time in his life to forego the annual Memorial day pilgrimage to the graves of his former comrades, Abram B. Covalt, civil war veteran and oldest G. A. R. commander in the United States, who recently celebrated his one hundredth birthday, died May 31 of heart failure at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. L. Hamilton of Oakland.

Mrs. John Hammond Crabbe, formerly Miss Mary Freeman of Woodland, member of the family which founded Woodland, has been awarded a $35,000 damage judgment in San Francisco courts against Ira O. Rhoades, purchasing agent of the Southern Pacific company, held responsible for an automobile accident in which she was seriously injured. Mrs. Crabbe lost the sight of one eye.

Farwell Brown, editor of the Oroville "Mercury," and his mother, Mrs. Murat Brown, were found dead in their home one morning last week from asphyxiation. It is thought that Mrs. Brown, an invalid, succumbed to the gas fumes while she was preparing dinner. Her son, returning, found her, and carried her to the porch. Reentering the kitchen to turn off the stove, he is believed to have been overcome by the gas himself.

Revealing plans for construction of a great reservoir in French Meadows at a cost of approximately $10,000,000, John L. McNab, San Francisco attorney, has petitioned the state division of water rights for a permit to divert 200 second feet of water from the middle fork of the American river in Placer county, and to store 80,000-acre feet in the proposed reservoir. The project contemplates development of 75,000 theoretical horsepower of electric energy.

The Sespe Development corporation announced that it will build a suspended monorail system to connect Fillmore and Sespe Hot Springs, a distance of twenty miles through Sespe canyon. The line will carry both freight and passengers, the cars to run at a speed of 100 miles an hour. With the twenty-mile run taking less than twenty minutes officers of the corporation said that Fillmore and other parts of Ventura county would be brought within an hour's ride of Los Angeles.

Four years will be devoted to the establishment of a wild flower sanctuary in Yosemite valley surrounding the new $1,000,000 Ahwahnee hotel, according to the plans of Carl Purdy, naturalist of Ukiah. "We will attempt to recreate the natural meadow effect in front of the Ahwahnee," explained Purdy. "Hundreds of flowers which are native will be planted there. One side of the meadow will be a rock garden, which will include specimens of the wild flowers found in the higher altitudes."

"The Romance of the Redwoods," colorful outdoor drama featuring the beauties of the primitive woodlands, will be presented under the direction of Garnet Holme as the first annual Humboldt Redwood pageant in the natural redwood forest near Eureka on June 11 and 12. The redwoods play, embodying a woodland motive whose underlying story is the preservation of the giant trees, was written by Holme and Dan Totheroh, both noted for production of pageantry.

Building of a hotel and thirty cottages, nucleus of an exclusive "divorce colony," is proceeding at the south end of Lake Tahoe. The cottages are on the Nevada side of the boundary, with the inn squarely on the California-Nevada line. The project is designed to divert profits of the divorce business from Reno. Residents at the colony will be restricted to divorce seekers. Reno lawyers admit the three months' divorce law is not bringing the rush of business anticipated, and the Tahoe project has caused consternation in local business and legal circles.

Pretty Things that are Made at Home

CREPE-TWIST, canvas-worked sports sets, consisting of hat, belt and bag—sounds interesting, does it not? And in their original gay coloring they are ever so much handsomer than the picture reveals them. Everyone who catches a sight of these charming sets for sportswear, feels an urge to buy some material so as to lose in no time in taking up this fascinating handcraft.

One can secure at almost any fancy-work department canvas belts stamped ready to work; also the stamped hat, which, by the way, has a sectional crown seamed together, likewise ready-to-work canvas handbags, the latter coming in almost any devised ment at a glance. These models, which are so directly interpretative, bring to mind a discussion which took place quite some time ago in a circle of designers concerning the possibilities of millinery art. The question brought up was: "Can a hat have expression?" Is it possible for it to tell a story as does a picture? Without a doubt the query finds its answer in the smart 1927 millinery in this picture.

Is tennis your hobby? Could anything more apropos in the way of millinery for the occasion be conceived of than the first hat in this group? Note how the tennis net is suggested with a lattice-work of straw type from fanciful wrist-bags to envelope purses. If one has "ideas of their own, then buy the canvas by the yard, cutting out and stamping the hat, belt and purse as fancy dictates.

For the crepe-twist used for embroidering, one must go to the department where fancy crepe and tissue paper is sold. The remarkable part of this handsome twist is that it is really a yarn made of tightly twisted crepe paper which has been processed to be as durable as raffia and it works up just as effectively, with the advantage of costing but a trifle.

The work itself is easy of accomplishment. All that is required is simple embroidery stitches directed by the stamped guide to fill in the background in stripes, as the pocketbook shows, or in squares as used for the hat. The floral pattern is filled in with solid stitch also, but of course tempered to the character of the design.

All sorts of interesting decorative braid, together with a clever placement of racquet and ball in lieu of an ornament.

You prefer golf? Was ever a hat better tuned to the sport than the one shown at the top to the right! Clever is that grassy arrangement of straw fringe around the crown, not to mention the ingenuity of the golf sticks and bag effect.

An enthusiast over football? On a cool day the helmet-like cap centered to the right will prove just the combination suited to sportswear for this event.

The hat below to the left cannot fail to be of appeal to the girl intending to win the next game of hockey.

If the proposed plan of wearing millinery apropos of the profession proves popular, we will see something like the chapeau which concludes the group. It has been suggested that this model be described as "note" worthy. This very unusual creation was designed for no less a personage features are introduced, such as colored beads interworked in cunning ways. The belt in the picture has a pattern of beads running throughout its length in connection with its multi-colored background of crepe twist.

The handbag is sewed into a metal or composition frame after the manner for handmade ribbon purses.

There is an interesting trend of realism developing in the realm of millinery in that certain new models interpret the occasion for which they are intended. The group of "topic hats," as some call them, as here pictured, tell the story of this new move- than Rosa-Raisa, the famous opera star.

Handpainting is contributing an interesting novelty to sports hats in the way of clever scenic effects. A pretty white yachting hat of felt recently designed showed a painted marine which included sailboats and blue waves with pennants and flags interworked. A simple national blue silk cord was tied about the crown. A similar painting appearing on the sleeves of the white silk blouse is worn with it.

Farmers Must Do Away With Unsound, Antiquated Marketing Methods

By UNITED STATES SENATOR CAPPER, of Kansas.

THE need for farm legislation is due solely to unsound and antiquated marketing methods, and not, despite the general contrary belief, in inefficient production methods. The support which the Canadian government has given the wheat co-operatives in the Dominion is largely responsible for their success, as contrasted with the lack of progress among co-operatives in the wheat states of this country.

Agriculture must set up and use selling machinery comparable to that which other business has found necessary. The farm interests of the country will continue to complain until some adjustment takes place,

The farmers' co-operative movement will do more than anything else in solving this marketing problem. I hope to see the next congress create a federal marketing board which first of all will aid the farmer in organizing an efficient system for selling his products and finding a market for his surplus.

If the government gets squarely behind the co-operatives, it will supply the force needed to put this movement over in a big way. Government aid through a federal marketing board would not mean price-fixing, but would place the farmer on an equality with other industry.

The farm situation has become so serious that the decline of rural population has almost reached the proportions of a debacle. A recent Department of Commerce report showed there were only 24,474,812 white farmers in this country on January 1, 1925, and the number had since been reduced to 23,500,000.

Our outworn and inefficient marketing machinery is full of rust. We probably will just drift ahead, despite the certainty of this tremendous peak load which is just ahead, until harvest starts, and then it will be too late to do anything new.

Forces of Advancement Rivals Rather Than Allies of the Church

By REV. JOHN HENRY HOPKINS, Chicago Minister.

Education, art and law in the past 500 years have proved rivals of the church rather than allies. Education is producing cynics and pessimists; art, at best, claims today to be "unmoral," and law does not enforce itself.

The church is surrounded by rivals. First is education. Our national confidence in the intellectual life is almost a superstition. Yet the prevailing note in recent conventions of the National Education association has been that of criticism.

We simply cannot progress along intellectual lines long. Our colleges, schools and universities are not solving the post-war problems. The recent epidemic of student suicides is a sufficient comment.

Art was once the "handmaiden of religion." This order of things changed when puritanism excommunicated art.

The chasm has increasingly widened, until today art at best claims to be unmoral, and at worst is well described by a much stronger but equally disappointing adjective.

Again, since the great war we have seen on a national scale of unprecedented proportions that law does not enforce itself—while law implies the authority to enforce itself.

The church has only the friendliest attitude toward these three factors and only deprecates their negligence. I urge the necessity for more co-operation between these primary forces in modern times.

Great Need of Making Morality Positive Rather Than Negative

By BERTRAND RUSSEL, Eminent Philosopher.

We need a new idea of virtue. Too many people today think that virtue consists in not doing rather than in doing. We make morality negative rather than positive. The standards of "goodness" which are generally recognized today by public opinion are not those which are calculated to make the world a happier place. This is due to a variety of causes, of which the chief is tradition.

Primitive morality seems to have developed out of the notion of taboo. It was originally purely superstitious, and forbade certain purely harmless acts (such as eating out of the chief's dish) on the ground that they produced disaster by magical means. In this way there came to be prohibitions which continued to have authority over people's feelings when the supposed reasons were forgotten.

No real morality can be attained by merely abstaining from doing. In the Gospels, it says: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." That is a very positive precept. But in all Christian communities, the man who obeys the precept is persecuted. I do not know of any country where a man who has a genuine love for his neighbor can long avoid obloquy.

What we need today is a morality based upon a love of life, upon pleasure in growth and positive achievement, not upon repression and prohibition.

Pacifist Organizations Unconsciously Playing Into Hands of Radicals

By LIEUT. D. D. ANDREWS, Army Reserve Corps.

The nation should be warned against playing into the hands of Red propagandists through overzealous preaching of the doctrines of peace. There are three branches of attack which the Reds are directing against American institutions, ideals of civilization and the doctrines of Christianity. These three have for their vehicles the Association of Young Pioneers of America, the Fellowship of Youth for Peace and women's peace organizations.

The American Christian home is the foundation of civilization, yet it is bearing the brunt of the attacks being made by Red propagandists in the guise of liberal thought, higher thinking and liberty movements. If the Reds can break down our defenses by appealing to liberal thought and to the women's natural desire for peace, it would not be long afterward before the red flag they so honor would be floating from the flagstaff of the nation's capitol.

There are 65,000 oath-bound Reds in America today, more than twice the number that captured the government of Russia after its national defenses had been destroyed. I am tremendously concerned lest we play into the hands of these influences with our talk of peace at any price.

In the Market Place

IN certain parts of Europe some centuries ago, the farm laborer was wont to stand in the town market place holding a straw in his mouth as a sign that he was looking for employment.

Today the uninvested dollar places itself in the open market. As to an individual, it must be offered an occupation free from personal hazard, with steady employment and attractive wages.

In providing telephone facilities for nation-wide service, the Bell System has employed millions of such dollars. The savings of more than half a million American telephone users, invested in Bell System Securities, have built the system that serves them. Theirs is an investment in service, and they themselves have served by investing.

IN VACATION TIME

If you want to do something of real service, if you want to help the boy who has just finished a school term and who has the long days of summer ahead of him, find something for him to do from now until he has to go back to his books in the fall. The curse of the world is idleness and it is just as harmful to the growing boy as it is to the man who prefers loafing to laboring.

It needn't be a highly important job you give him, either. Anything to keep his mind occupied and his time employed is good for him. Anything is better for him than running the streets or tearing about over the country in search of adventure. If he earns a few dollars, all the better. But that is secondary in importance—the big thing is that he is cultivating a love for work and learning something that will be worth money to him in later years when he needs it most.

Washington Township parents who encourage their boys to work during the vacation season can give you many reasons why it is the best thing for the boy. The teachers can tell you, too, that the boy who spends his vacation in idleness is not the most advanced in his classes. Of course they have to play. But a little work and a little play is the best mixture for them. An entire vacation spent in idleness is the worst thing a father or mother could wish upon their son. So help the boy out if he comes to you seeking employment, or even an odd job. You'll be doing not only the boy, but the entire community a genuine favor.

SETTLING DOWN

Now that Henry Ford has announced his newest product the auto market is expected to settle down for the balance of the summer. Almost every car owner has been hearing for months that "Ford's got something up his sleeve," or gossip that "Ford's going to turn the auto industry upside down." Makers have been afraid they might produce too many cars, dealers have been afraid to order too far in advance and buyers have been afraid of price cuts after they put in their order for a car. So there haven't been as many autos sold the first five months of 1927 as during the same period last year.

But things are settling down now. The man with a car to trade in for a new one ought to come nearer getting a satisfactory allowance for it. The car he selects may be reduced in price before the year is over, but he would have to take that chance anyhow. Ford has announced his new model, so other companies will not have to make the radical changes they feared Ford was going to force them make. Any model of any car bought now will not be very much different from models of the same car a year from now.

A few years ago gossip of the auto industry interested but a little handful here and there. Now every rumor, every report, is of interest to almost every citizen. Next to the weather, we believe automobiles furnish the favorite topic of conversation around Washington Township. It touches the life of everyone in some way or another, so now that the industry is settling down after being "up in the air" for several months should be received with interest.

OUR NEWEST HERO

From present indications it is going to be a long time before the world quits talking about Charles Lindbergh and his flight across the Atlantic ocean. If there was ever a time when one name was on everybody's tongue it has been since this product of a middle-western town landed in Paris. He is a typical son of the soil, a real American boy; he carries no high-sounding college degrees; he never had but $2000 in his life and that sum, which he earned carrying the mail, he put into his airplane. He didn't have millionaires backing him, and he doesn't know what "pull" means. He is the same type of boy we can find right here in Washington township and on the farms surrounding us. That is what makes people continue to praise him, and to be thankful for such fine examples of young Americanism. It will be a long time before we tire of praising Lindbergh—and if he gets his just deserts the world will never quit sounding his name.

DANGERS AHEAD?

The U. S. weather bureau sends out a report to the effect that, taking the entire country as a whole, we are almost three inches ahead of our normal rainfall. That means we are passing through one of the wettest springs in our history. And a wet spring is ideal for breeding disease-bearing insects, such as flies and mosquitoes. It is apt to be a healthy summer for these pests, although they have been a little late in getting around. The housewife who has her screens up is setting a good example, and premises that have been cleaned of stagnant pools and disease-breeding rubbish piles are going to suffer least when the insect army gets busy.

Although some men never get anything but a sample copy of a mail-order paper it's pretty hard for them to wait until the mail is distributed.

A man has to be mighty egotistical these days to cross a street in a big city and feel that he amounts to anything.

One way a husband can get even with his wife for using his razor for a can-opener is to shine his shoes with her powder-puff.

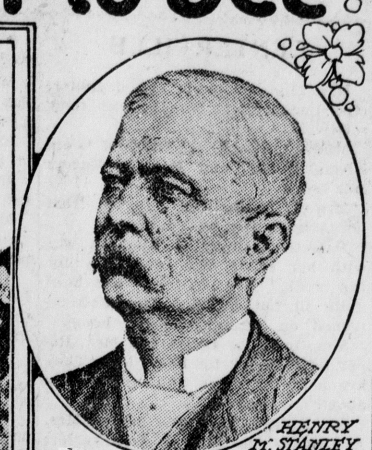
"For to Admire and for to See"

ROBERT E. PEARY

BALBOA DISCOVERS THE PACIFIC OCEAN



HENRY M. STANLEY

ZEBULON M. PIKE

VILJALMUR STEFANSSON

For to admire and for to see,
For to be'old this world so wide—
It never done no good to me
But I can't drop it if I tried.

"There's no use in going further—it's the edge of cultivation."
So they said, and I believed it—broke my land and sowed my crop—
Built my barns and strung my fences in the little border station
Tucked away below the foothills where the trails run out and stop.

Till a voice, as bad as Conscience, rang interminable changes
On one everlasting Whisper day and night repeated—so:
"Something hidden. Go and find it. Go and look behind the Ranges—
'Something lost behind the Ranges. Lost and waiting for you. Go!"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

O SANG Mr. Kipling once upon a time. In both poems he was talking about the same type of man, the man who through all the ages since history began has felt the urge to find out what was "lost behind the Ranges," the urge to "Go! For to admire and for to see"—the Explorer.

The world owes much to its explorers of every nation and every age. Drop their names out of American history, especially, and how comparatively lifeless and unromantic that history would be! Call the roll of the men who have ventured into the unknown, who have been the advance guards of civilization, and see what manner of men are these who answer—Norseman, Italian, Portuguese, Spaniard, Frenchman, Dutchman, Englishman and American. How many years of history and splendid achievement are written in these names: Bjarni Herjulfson, Eric the Red, Leif Ericson, Marco Polo, Henry the Navigator, Christopher Columbus, John and Sebastian Cabot, Americus Vespucius, Ferdinand Magellan, Ponce de Leon, Balboa, Pineda, Hernando De Soto, Francisco de Coronado, Cabeca de Vaca, Governor Onate, Jacques Cartier, Verrazano, Sir Francis Drake, Frobisher and Davis and Hawkins, Capt. John Smith, Hendrik Hudson, Samuel de Champlain, Jean Nicollet, St. Lusson, Marquette and Joliet and La Salle, Sieur de la Verendrye, Hennepinl, D'Lhut, Radisson and Groseilliers, Samuel Hearne, Alexander Mackenzie and Robert Cook!

Those are the names which should be written large in the annals of what has been called the "Golden Age of Exploration" when the Old world was sending out its bravest and best to find out all that could be learned about this New world which opened up to mankind on the day when the caravels of Columbus dropped anchor in the West Indies. Then followed the era of colonization, a period of fierce wars during which the nations of the Old world strove to determine which was to dominate the new and out of it all came the birth of a new nation in the New world, the United States of America.

And it was the Explorer, too, the man who wanted to see what fertile valleys were "hidden behind the Ranges" of the Appalachians where he could satisfy the land hunger of a westward-pushing race, who helped bring on that conflict 150 years ago which made possible a new nation. Long before the Revolution the new breed of American frontiersman was crossing over the Blue Ridge and the Great Smoky mountains, and Abram Wood, Thomas Batts, Robert Fallam and James Needham, whatever the motive, whether for trade or homeseeking, which led them there, won for themselves the right to be called "Explorers." Hard on their heels came the Long Hunters of Kentucky, such men as James Finley, Daniel Boone, Richard Henderson, James Robertson and John Sevier.

Under the flag of the new republic the westward push continued. In 1803 the two young Virginians, Lewis and Clark, set out upon their "magnificent adventure" and two years later Zebulon M. Pike began the explorations which were to make him famous and give him the mighty monument in the Colorado mountain peak which bears his name. Army officers, hunters, fur traders, trappers, scientists, engineers—they all sought to dispel the mystery of what lay "behind the Ranges" and when their work was done there was written on the roll of Explorers such names as Stephen Long, James Pursley, John C. Fremont, Kit Carson, Jedediah Smith, John Colter, Jim Bridger, Hugh Glenn, R. B. Marcy, John Wesley Powell, John W. Gunnison, Edwin James Becknell, McKnight, Beard, Chambers, Wyeth, Meek, Jenney, Reynolds, Ashley, Lisa, Bonneville, Jackson, Fitzpatrick and Sublette.

When the furthermost reaches of the last great

"THE PAGEANT OF AMERICA", YALE UNIVERSITY PRESS
THEODORE ROOSEVELT

West had been explored the Explorer breed had to turn to other lands to satisfy the urge to "Go! For to admire and for to see." There was still the mystery of Africa, the Dark continent, so a new race of explorers was born and it added to the long roll the names of DuChaillu, Chinese Gordon and David Livingston, the greatest of them all. The story of this Englishman who gave his life to the work is one of the most romantic in all history. No less romantic is the story of the young American newspaper correspondent, Henry M. Stanley, who set out to find Livingston, lost somewhere in the wilds of Africa and persisted until he was successful. The world has particular reason to remember Stanley at this time because there was recently erected in St. Bride's church in London a memorial tablet to the memory of this man who not only rescued a fellow explorer, but who made other expeditions, as a result of which the term "Darkest Africa" disappeared to be substituted by the knowledge of one of the most interesting continents on the face of the globe.

With the mystery of Africa solved the minds of this hardy breed of adventurers next turned to those places where the extreme of cold made exploration even more perilous than did the extreme of heat in the regions of the equator—the North and South poles. So the Arctic and Antarctic regions added to the honor roll the names of Andree, Wellman, Nansen, Franklin, Greely, Wilkes, Reynolds, Shackleton, Scott, Amundsen, Stefansson and MacMillan. And it was an American, Robert W. Peary, who planted the Stars and Stripes as the first flag of any nation on the point that is farthest north in the whole world.

Even when the North and South poles had joined the class of the Dark continent as mysteries that were mysteries no longer, the race of explorers was not yet satisfied. Down in South America there was a mysterious river named appropriately the River of Doubt, so a former President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, set out to solve this enigma and did it. His sons also have carried on the family tradition and a year or so ago returned from the recesses of Tibet, bringing with them specimens of an animal described by one of the earliest explorers, Marco Polo, the mountain goat which bears his name, the Ovis Poli.

Five hundred years of exploration have not yet yielded all the secrets of unknown land upon this earth. There still are places which have not yet known the tread of civilized man's foot. But let it not be thought that the old breed of Explorers that gave to the world a Christopher Columbus, a Lewis and Clarke, a Henry M. Stanley and a Raold Amundsen, is yet extinct. For the "face of the globe is acrawl with expeditions seeking scientific data and high adventure. Secrets hidden in the far corners of the earth are attracting eager hordes of inquisitive students of both sexes and the graveyards of history are being ransacked by indefatigable searchers for light on the remote past." Only a year or so ago the whole world was thrilled by the news of the discoveries made in the valley of the Nile and King Tut became a name as familiar to newspaper readers as Calvin Coolidge or Babe Ruth.

During the year 1926 the Smithsonian institution sent out no less than 35 field expeditions to four continents. If you would know of the romance of modern exploration get a copy of the little pamphlet issued by the Smithsonian which some one has suggested might properly be called "The Adventures of Science." In it is told briefly the story of these thirty-five expeditions to Sumatra, to China, to Algeria, to Beloochistan, to southwest Africa and to Alaska for the purpose of capturing live wild game, unearthing buried villages which flourished in prehistoric times, collecting fossil footprints, and fossil elephants and shells and gathering ferns in West Indian mountains and minerals in Mexico.

During the same year the American Museum of Natural History sent out thirty-four expeditions and the Field museum of Chicago had twelve out at one time. In fact, there is scarcely a place on the face of the earth where you can go now without finding some of these modern explorers at work or stumbling upon evidence that they have been there before you. Last summer there was something of a "traffic congestion" of explorers in the Arctic. Byrd and Amundsen flew over the North pole in an airplane. The Greenland expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, under the direction of George Palmer Putnam, made an 8,500-mile trip in the schooner Effie Morrisey, went within 700 miles of the pole, picked up the University of Michigan expedition, commanded by Prof. William Herbert Hobbs, at Nova Scotia, took it to South Greenland, brought it back in October and finally arrived in New York harbor with a cargo of specimens for the museum's hall of ocean life.

The Field museum expedition, headed by Commander Donald B. MacMillan, spent two and one-half months in the frozen North trailing the footsteps of the ancient Norsemen. But Americans have no monopoly on polar exploration. The French have two such excursions planned or under way to search for the magnetic pole and explore that region. Up in Alaska the United States navy, the geological survey, the bureau of ethnology and about a dozen other government bureaus have been or are now carrying on their explorations in that territory. One of the most adventurous of these is the exploit of Lieut. Ben Wyatt, aviator, who has set out to map an area of 40,000 square miles, a job that will take him at least four years. In the interior of Alaska Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the bureau of ethnology is mapping the probable route by which primitive man first found his way to this continent and in the Bering sea John Treadwell Nichols of the American Museum of Natural History is making a similar study of the Asiatic fish which have invaded American waters.

It is in the Old World, however, that some of the most interesting expeditions which are turning back the pages of history are under way. The Faunthrope-Vernay expedition of the American museum has been exploring in northern India and went through the dangerous passes of the Himalayas to Chinese Turkestan, visiting a number of regions never before penetrated by scientists. In central Asia a Russian expedition has announced discoveries so extraordinary that they sound more like fairy tales than sober facts of the present time. In the "Dead City" of Khara Khota in the Gobi desert they report the discovery of a library of 25,000 volumes in an extinct language, and in the tombs of the "Seven Kings of Tartary" treasures as perfect as the day they were placed there, at least 6,000 years ago. Similar treasures are being found by expeditions sent out by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, by the oriental institute of the University of Chicago, by the University of Michigan, by Harvard university, and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, all of which are working in various parts of Egypt.

In Mesopotamia there is a Field museum-Oxford university joint expedition, one financed by the British museum and another by the University of Pennsylvania, all of which have announced important discoveries which throw new light on the ancient civilization of that region. Pennsylvania also has an expedition in Palestine which has already discovered the Temple of Ashtorath and predicts further remarkable discoveries before its work is finished.

Nor is the Old world the only place where the secrets of forgotten peoples are being sought. In the jungles of Central America, Mexico, Ecuador, Peru and Brazil, scientists working under the direction of a number of institutions are bringing to light more information about the Mayas and the other Indian or pre-Indian races. These include the American Museum of Natural history, the Peabody Museum of Harvard, the Carnegie institute, the British museum, the National Geographic society, the Field museum, and the British Royal Geographical society.

These are some of the expeditions that are already in the field. Add to them the expeditions that are constantly going forth and it is easy to believe that within a short time not a spot upon the face of the globe will remain unvisited by man.

All for Art's Sake

LEROY PRENTICE and Bernice Boyd were among the most promising of Minden's youth. Each had ambitions to be famous and together they talked of their dreams. It was not surprising the elders scented a romance and yet there was nothing of love in the minds or the talk of the two.

Leroy was confident that with a little metropolitan training he could succeed as a painter and illustrator, and Bernice was equally certain she was to become a great writer.

"This place is too small," he told her. "The artist needs to meet the world and see life. I think I will go to New York."

Bernice nodded agreement. "It is the same with writing. I must see humanity in all its aspects, feel the pulse of a great city, and then—and then, I shall write as I have never written before."

He was the first to go, but she was not long in following. He met her at the train with the convincing air of a man already at home in the big city, helped her find a room in the district approved by aspiring talent and was prepared to resume the regular order of Wednesday and Sunday evening calls, but Bernice had other plans.

"You will not misunderstand me," she said, "but moving to New York with me is a great and serious step. I wish to do real creative work, unhindered by friendships and uninfluenced by anyone's opinion or advice. I came here to work and so—and so until we make our names at least, we are not to see each other."

Leroy frowned. He had planned showing her the zoo and the aquarium, had wanted to show her he knew his way about. Yet, there was his work. Perhaps it was for the best.

"But I don't want to lose track of you altogether. I'd like to hear from you, you know, when you sell a story, and would like to tell you about my pictures." Bernice was firm.

"Every Saturday night, she said, "I will write you a note, telling you of what I have done and you can write me. One will be the spur to the other. We start in a race for fame. Oh, Leroy, it's going to be lots of fun!"

At first the letters were of the details of settling and getting started. Then Bernice wrote that she had interviewed a great editor who had promised to read her stories. Leroy told of a magazine that was considering a picture for a cover. The letters became triumphant, almost delirious with the joy and excitement of the artists. It was true, as Bernice had said, each was a spur to the other.

When Leroy hinted that he be allowed to call and received no encouragement he desisted. But he worked all the harder at his painting with a growing fear that Bernice would be famous before he was even recognized. He wondered if it would spoil her and told himself that no matter how many honors he received he would never forget the girl from Minden who had been the first to appreciate his work. So they worked on and each week submitted a report which told of the ascent on the ladder to the heights. They were brave, glorious letters.

Yet there came a day when the artist discovered he must give serious thought to the question of food and rent. He penned a note to Bernice telling of a commission he had received to paint the portrait of a millionaire, then went out to look for a job. All day he walked the streets. Next morning he arose early, scanned the want ads and resumed the search. At last he was given his chance, a job drawing posters for a lobby display in a motion picture house.

He smiled when he thought of the work before him, making pictures of actors and actresses. They were portraits of famous persons, all right, and he would have something real to report to Bernice. In his room he worked on an assignment of posters to be placed on the following Wednesday, and when that day arrived carried them under his arm to the theater.

Leroy stood by while the posters were being placed, surveying them with mingled feelings of pride and defeat. This was not what he had wished to do. What would Bernice, the famous writer, say when she learned he had been bluffing in his letters? He turned quickly, for someone was tapping, as if on glass, close behind him. There in the ticket cage, looking at him as she had never looked before, sat Bernice!

She returned his surprised stare bravely, and there was no need for explanations. Bernice, who had been so confident and who had written of so many triumphs was selling tickets. Anyhow, except for this glass cage she wasn't out of his reach. He leaned over to talk through the little hole.

"Leroy," she whispered, "let's go back home, home to Minden where we can do better work—together."

Great Sailor's Monument

The Nelson monument, standing in Trafalgar square, London, is a lofty column 145 feet high. It was erected in 1843 at a cost of $225,000. The bronze reliefs at the base represent the battle of the Nile, the bombardment of Copenhagen, the battle of St. Vincent and the death of Nelson. The four lions at the base are the work of Sir Edwin Landseer, the famous animal artist.

DAINTY FOODS

Oranges in any form are always welcome in our food. The following recipe makes a tasty dessert:

Orange Souffle.—To the whites of three eggs add a small pinch of salt and beat until stiff, then add gradually three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Beat the yolks of the eggs until light, add six tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and stir in enough orange juice to thin to the consistency of coffee cream. Into this fold carefully one-half of the beaten whites, turn into a baking dish and cook in a dish of water until it puffs. Spread over the top the pulp of three oranges, cover with the remainder of the whites and set into the oven to brown lightly. The reason for adding the oranges after the first cooking is that they become bitter if cooked for a longer time.

Roquefort Salad Dressing.—Cream two ounces of Roquefort cheese, using a wooden spoon. Gradually beat in four to six tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two to three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and a scant half teaspoonful of salt and paprika. This is especially good on head lettuce.

Wild fowl is most appetizing with:

Ripe Olive Sauce.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add one sliced onion and cook until slightly brown. Remove the onion and stir to a smooth paste with the butter and five tablespoonfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper and cook with two cupfuls of brown stock, adding gradually until well cooked. Cut the meat from a dozen ripe olives, cover with water and cook seven minutes, then add to the sauce.

Savory Potatoes.—Arrange nine medium-sized potatoes in a shallow baking dish, add one-fourth cupful of water, six tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two onions finely minced, one tablespoonful of powdered sage, one teaspoonful of salt and pepper to season. Bake one hour or until the potatoes are soft.

Slices of lemon dusted with paprika or finely minced parsley make very pretty garnishment for fish.

Are You Economical?

Here are a few questions which it is wise to ask one's self quite frequently: Are you careful of the large expenditures but careless of the little things?

We have been often called the most wasteful nation in the world. Anyone, if he has plenty, may be wasteful, but true thrift is found as often among those of wealth as those who have little. If the one who is wealthy has earned it himself, that very fact shows that he has been thrifty and saving.

Do the members of the family take more food upon the plate than they can eat? It used to be considered good form to leave food on the plate; that has passed into disuse; now it is a compliment to one's hostess to leave a clean plate.

Look into the cup after a meal and see who leaves sugar undissolved and wasted. Such waste is both useless and wrong. Stirring the sugar to dissolve it takes but a minute and if less is needed less should be served.

Are the vegetables prepared in a wasteful manner; is food carelessly prepared, burned and unpalatable, so that it is uneaten and then thrown out?

Are you spending more than a third of your income for food for your family?

Are you buying foods out of season, thus spoiling the appetite for them when they are in the seasonable market? If so, this is waste of labor, fuel, transportation, as well as money.

Are you buying perishable foods in such quantities that they must spoil before they are used?

Are you using the fish of your own community rather than those which must be shipped in at greater expense?

Do you throw away the vegetable waters or combine them in sauces or gravies to serve with the foods?

Do you use the cheaper cuts of meat which are more nourishing, or the choicer cuts which cost twice as much?

Do you plan your meals several days ahead, so that leftovers may be utilized?

Do you realize that the mother in the home is the most important member; that her strength should be conserved and her comfort looked after? Has she time and strength-saving conveniences so that her family may have the maximum comfort with the minimum labor, so that she may have rest and leisure to keep her health, happiness and good looks?

Let us look at the little leaks, the irritating little things which wear away nerves and cause friction and discord. These are the things which cause many bankrupt homes.

TOWNSHIP BRIEFS

CENTERVILLE

Mrs. Monroe Norris and daughter, Miss Lucile, spent Monday with their relatives.

Misses Eggers of Oakland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Eggers last week.

Mrs. F. O. Bunting returned from her Arizona trip on Tuesday.

Mrs. G. Springer of Alameda was with her sister Mrs. J. Mowry for the week. Mrs. Springer has been quite ill but is improving, and returned on Saturday to her home.

Mrs. Du Boise Eaton and Mrs. Roper left Monday for San Diego. They are motoring down and will remain about a month.

Mr. Sydney Snow and family, Mrs. A. Ormsby and Miss P. Ormsby left for their country home in Amador County.

Mr. C. Attwood was home for the week-end and entertained some of his friends in the evening. Mr. Attwood graduates this year with distinction.

Mr. Walter Rogers of Newark entertained the St. James Mens' Club Thursday evening. It was voted not to discontinue through the summer. Mr. W. Robie of Alvarado will be host at the next meeting.

The "Sweet 16" club met with Miss Miranda Norris on Thursday the 2nd. There were five tables instead of the usual four. All enjoyed the social "500". At the close Mrs. Bodutch had highest score. Miss Bess Dusterberry slams and Mrs. Aaks the consolation. The next gathering will be held in two weeks with Mrs. C. Emerson.

St. James Guild will meet this week at Memorial Hall. Mrs. Fitting and Mrs. V. Ames will be hostesses.

The Memorial Communion set purchased by friends in "loving memory" of Mrs. Mary Smith was received and used on Sunday. Many relatives and friends were present and brought beautiful flowers and lillies for altar decoration. The church has received several much neded memorials this year. The lights for Mrs. J. Mowry; the Bishop's chair for Mrs. Kelly and handsome pulpit frontals embroidered by Mrs. E. Chadbourne. Also a generous donation on Easter for Mr. H. Mosher toward the debt of Memorial Hall. It was given in hopes that theother members of the congregation would raise the sum to $500. Several hundred dollars has been promised and time will tell whether the whole sum is realized.

The Grammar school gave their operetta on the radio Monday night at San Jose. It came in very clear and did credit to all.

IRVINGTON

Th Irvington Chamber of Commerce will give a Whist Party on Friday, July 24. The committee appointed were V. M. Cramer, W. Y. Bewick, G. Bernal, R. J. Wright, L. Millard.

The Irvington Chamber of Commerce reports that the S. P. R. R. will install a new crossing at the Twohig crossing. This is good news as most autoists have learned of this wretched crossing from sad experience. Why can't some bright railroad man invent a way to overcome these bumpy crossings?

Will Speak at Irvington Community Church

On Sunday, June 12th, Mr. A. C. Silverlight, a native of Poland, will be the speaker at the Irvington Community church. Mr. Silverlight was born in Poland of Jewish parents; raised under the supervision of the Orthodox faith, but later became a Christian. He will give a graphic address, telling of his experiences and of his present work.

The Irvington Community Sunday School will show a valuable collection of Europe's finest cathedrals and churches on the screen on Sunday morning, June 19 at 10 o'clock. This is in line with the program of the Sunday school to convey its teaching through the medium of the eye. Two weeks ago a splendid collection of thirty-five colored slides on Yosemite Valley were shown. These slides are the property of George Kanzee, 12 Geary street, San Francisco, and are the result of a lifetime of specialized work.

The construction of the Mission-San Jose-Irvington highway has commenced. The contractors are at present putting in new culverts, which will be some feet lower than the old ones. This will allow a new grade for the new highway and many of the grades will be lowered.

Irvington Boy Scout Troop is sending six boys to the Scout Camp for two weks. They are: William Engel, Robert Engel, Wallace Pond, Gordon Pond, George Ruter and Elmo Grimmer. This troop is a live troop and has shown a splendid development since it was reorganized four years ago. One of their favorite stunts is to go up Niles Canyon, make their supper, camp overnight and come back next morning. In this way they are able to get a maximum of Scout training in a minimum amount of time.

NEWARK

Mrs. Flaherty spent the 30th in San Francisco with her niece Miss Elsie Haley.

Elton Beardon and Mrs. Beardon of San Francisco, spent last Sunday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. Beardon.

Mr. and Mrs. Haines of Berkeley visited with their father, Mr. Hampton last week.

The Misses Brown were in San Francisco several days last week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Paxton.

Newark Presbyterian Church Notes

The Women's Missionery Society met last Thursday at the manse with Mrs. McCall and Mrs. Reivere as hostesses.

A fine program was carried out. The society had the unusual pleasure of having two missionaries address them: Mr. Edmondson, who has been in the states three or four years, and Mr. Taylor who is home on a furlough and intends to return to the field in July. They were both commissioners to the General Assembly.

Mrs. Wilson favored the meeting with a song.

The subject of the meeting being Latin-America, the refreshments consisted of native dishes of those countries.

Next Sunday, June 12, the Sunday School will observe Children's Day. A very interesting program has been arranged by Mrs. Wilson. The Sunday School and church will unite their services into one, beginning at 10:30 a. m.

The Sunday School children are all excited over the prospect of a picnic at the Water Temple. Automobiles are being provided by many friends to convey them there.

A large delegation from the church attended the evening meeting of the General Assembly in San Francisco on the 30th and heard interesting addresses from missionaries in the Home field.

The Men's League met on Thursday of this week and enjoyed their usual pleasant evening.

The pulpit was supplied both morning and evening by Rev. Mr. Edmondson of New York, who came to the coast to attend the General Assembly.

Mrs. Robert Thompson, who was Mrs. Francis Porter, is revisiting the scenes of her childhood in Irvington.
